The Ayurvedic education in Banaras Hindu University was started in the year 1920 in a section of Ayurveda under the faculty of Oriental Learning and Theology. Pt. Madan Mohan Malaviya, the founder of the University invited Kaviraj Dharamdas ji, a renowned physician to join the University in the section of Ayurveda. Due to his dedication, the dream of Pt. Madan Mohan Malaviya was fulfilled and in 1927, the College of Ayurveda in Banaras Hindu University was established. Kaviraj Dharamadas ji was the founder principal of the Ayurvedic College. A new era of education in Ayurveda was started consisting of Six years AMS (Ayurvedacharya with Medicine and Surgery) course under the separate faculty of Medicine and Surgery.

The college was attached to the 100-bedded, "Sir Sunderlal Hospital" and Graduates of Ayurveda started to get practical training in this hospital. In AMS course, there were provisions of teaching Science as well as almost all the disciplines of Modern Medicine along with Ayurveda. It was a unique attempt to utilize the best of both the systems. In 1951, the University re-designated the AMS Course to ABMS (Ayurvedacharya Bachelor of Medicine and Surgery) by incorporating new modern disciplines.
