

DHRITI RAY DALAI

Brief CV

Dr Dhriti Ray Dalai (PhD from Visva-Bharati University, Santiniketan) has been teaching here since 2005 and has research interest in the area of Apartheid Literature, South African Fiction, 18th Century English History, Disability Studies, Sexuality, Kishore Sahitya, as well as Interdisciplinary Studies and Creative Pedagogy. As a classroom teacher, I apply innovative approaches such as drama, painting, individual or seminar presentation, individual and group creative assignment, etc. along with digital helps such as PowerPoint and film screening in my class to teach my assigned courses. Teaching Assignments: I have been teaching various courses here both at the Bachelor and Postgraduate levels such as: Indian Literatures in English, British Poetry, British Drama, Shakespeare and Metaphysical poets, John Milton, 18th century Periodical Essays, Tagore, as well as New Literatures in English especially of Nadine Gordimer and Chinua Achebe, besides the Research Methodology assignment with the Pre-Ph D class. Currently I am guiding four Doctoral Scholars in the area of Women's literature, Postcolonial Literature, Boul Songs of Bengal, Dalit Literature, and Afghani Fiction.